Paderborn, March 3, 2022 – Paderborn-based achelos GmbH is a new member of Embedded4You e. V. (E4You), the leading competence network for embedded technologies in Germany. The software development and consulting firm from the IT security sector now joins the E4You network with more than 30 member companies and over 2,000 partners and engineers. The goals are to secure active knowledge transfer, participate in joint projects in the field of industrial digitalisation and take part in trade fair appearances. In June 2022, achelos will also be present at the E4You joint stand at the Embedded World 2022 event in Nuremberg for the first time.

"We see growing market potential in the field of industrial digitalisation. In the E4You competence network, we have found the right partners for developing and optimally tapping this potential together. achelos brings extensive knowledge to the table and a great deal of experience with complex cryptographic systems, public key infrastructures, security engineering, evaluation and certification to Common Criteria, as well as a broad and established network of partners in the field of IT security," comments achelos Managing Director Thomas Freitag, describing the added value of the E4You membership.

"E4You is also delighted to welcome achelos as a new network member. Embedded systems now rank among the most important cross-application technologies of the 21st century. With Embedded4You, we have established a leading competence network that provides an active platform for technology experts. Working together, our aim is to contribute our expertise to projects and raise public awareness about the importance of the technology. With achelos, we have successfully acquired another valued expert for our network", comments Raphael Jakoby, Sales Director at Embedded4You.
